Historical Association, now appears a separate pamphlet of fifteen octavo pages. While the study is more than local in its scope, as the title implies, its bearing upon the history of the large number of Friends in Indiana gives it a local interest.

ARCHIVES OF INDIANA.

A report on the Archives of the State of Indiana, by Professor Harlow Lindley, of Earlham College, has been issued in a pamphlet form. It gives a list of the documents to be found in the following State departments: Governor's office, Secretary of State, Auditor of State, Treasurer of State, Clerk of the Supreme Court, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Adjutant General, State Library and Board of State Charities.

AN INDUSTRIAL HISTORY.

Mr. J. R. H. Moore, head of the Department of History in the Indianapolis Manual Training High School, is the author of "An Industrial History of the American People." It is a book of 496 pages, profusely illustrated and well indexed, and is a contribution of value to this subject. Macmillan & Company, New York, publishers.
